What Is a Safe Haven Law?

- First law passed in 1999 in Texas called the “Baby Moses law”
- As of July 2008 all 50 states have some form of this law
- Age for legal abandonment differs from state to state and ranges from 36 hours to 1 year old
- As of November 2008, Nebraska changed their Safe Haven law age limit from 18 years to 30 days old
Local Legislation

- Missouri 2003
  Safe Place for Newborns Act

- Kansas 2006
  Newborn Infant Protection Act
Where are Safe Havens?

In Missouri:
A newborn may be left in the hands of any staff on duty at hospitals, fire stations, ambulance or police stations, maternity homes or pregnancy resource centers.

In Kansas:
A newborn may be left in the hands of any staff on duty at hospitals, fire stations, police stations, city or county health departments.
Why Do We Need This Law?

- 4 children die every day in the United States as a result of child abuse.
- 3 out of 4 of these victims are under the age of 4.
- Newborns are at the greatest risk in the first day of their life.
- Women need a viable alternative to abandonment, abuse or murder.
Who might use a Safe Haven?

There is very little data but what we have indicates:

- Primarily women
- Come from all ages, education levels, ethnic backgrounds and income levels
- Likely have had no prenatal care
- Are unmarried and not in a relationship with the father of the baby
- Average age is between 18 and 22 years old
Why might someone need a Safe Haven?

- Feel isolated and alone.
- Feelings of guilt, shame and fear preclude their decision to abandon.
- The newborn may be the result of incest or rape.
- Abandonment or neonaticide is part of the pregnancy denial and is a way to achieve ultimate closure to a traumatic event.

Issues With The Safe Haven Law

- Many are not aware the law exists
- Some fear it will appear we are advocating abandoning babies
- Some find it hard to be empathetic
Supporting the Laws

- No funding in many states
- Low legislative priority
What Can You Do?

- If you work at a facility identified as a Safe Haven, make sure your employer has guidelines.

- Make sure you and your co-workers are aware of your responsibilities.

- Share information about Safe Haven with your family, friends and neighbors.
How Do We Spread the Word?

- Collaborate with Safe Havens in the community: hospitals, fire, police.
- Distribute branded signs to identify Safe Haven locations.
- Promote public awareness through education in schools and other community groups.
Safe Haven for Newborns Coalition of Greater Kansas City

A group of dedicated people and agencies in Kansas and Missouri have come together to promote awareness of the legislation.

“Every newborn deserves a safe haven.”

- Agencies will know their responsibilities in receiving a newborn
- The public will know about this alternative
The United Way of Greater Kansas City supports the project with their 2-1-1 Call Centers.

Anyone looking for additional information regarding local Safe Haven sites and resources can dial 2-1-1 or (866) 320-5764.
